Private Commissions

Private commissions are a wonderful inquiry to get an original drawing by an artist. It is a personal journey for both the artist and the buyer. Usually the client already has a general idea in mind and provides some details, maybe references, for the artist to use. Additionally I'm also offering "Surprise Original Drawings", where character and theme are a surprise and depend on my current state of mind, inspiration, mood and atmosphere. I will only draw a character once, and you will get the original artwork.

Although private commissions are a common thing within the art community, it typically entails a significant amount of effort, tweaking, and testing for the artist to produce a distinctive and personal piece of art.

Based on my experiences with private commissions and because I regularly get asked if I'm offering private commissions, I want to frame a few guidelines so we both feel comfortable.
